• PP SHEET

Polypropylene sheets are widely used in industrial sector to produce acid and chemical tanks, sheets, pipes, Returnable Transport Packaging (RTP), etc. because of its properties like high tensile strength, resistance to high temperatures and corrosion resistance.

• APET SHEET

PET sheet (polyethylene terephthalate) is a common thermoplastic that provides high dimensional stability, excellent mechanical strength and good resistance to creep. It offers resistance to chemicals, provides very low moisture absorption and is a good electrical insulator.

• EDS ABS SHEET

ESD ABS sheets are a type of plastic sheet that are designed to have electrostatic discharge (ESD) properties. These sheets are made from a combination of acrylonitrile-butadiene-styrene (ABS) resin and conductive materials, such as carbon black or metallic particles, which give them their ESD capabilities.

- ELECTRODIALYSIS SPACER

The electrodialysis spacer is a critical component of the system because it determines the efficiency and effectiveness of the process. The spacer serves to separate the membranes in the stack and provide a channel for the solution to flow through. The goal is to maintain a consistent distance between the membranes to ensure that there is a uniform electric field across the entire system.
